

A better tone for risk assets with most of the indices posting gains across the board. The Dow Jones Industrial Average claimed its first all-time high since July, and the S&P 500 and Nasdaq indices also hit records levels overnight. US benchmark Treasury yields climbed above 1.80% (+7bp) followed by the rest of the European benchmark yields moving higher anywhere between 3bp to 5bp.

The euro area final manufacturing PMI data for October came in slightly better than in September, but remains firmly contractionary. The final reading was 45.9 compared to 45.7 in September. Germany's PMI improved 0.2pts to 42.1 and France's rose 0.6pts to 50.7. The Reserve Bank of Australia kept rates on hold. The RBA Governor Philip Lowe highlighted that the easing of monetary policy has supported employment and income growth. He also hinted at extended periods of low interest rates required due to global macro factors and that the bank will be data dependent for further easing.

China is reportedly looking at options for President Xi to visit the US and sign the Phase One deal. A deal that's "very far along", and "practically completed" according to US Commerce Secretary Ross. Encouragingly, Ross also said that the US may not need to impose auto tariffs on EU car imports, and that negotiations could resolve differences. He noted that EU manufacturers are producing more cars in the US, which "was really the point of the exercise". Expectations that the US is prepared to adopt a calmer trade policy, at least during the 2020 Presidential election campaign, have lifted.

Chinese government bonds rallied after the central bank reduced the cost of 1-year loans to banks for the first time since 2016, soothing some market concerns about tightening liquidity. The People's Bank of China lent 400 billion yuan ($57 billion) of funds with its medium-term lending facility and lowered the interest rate on the loans to 3.25% from 3.3%, according to a statement.

The Bank of Japan reduced its buying of long-dated bonds, continuing to scale back purchases as it seeks to prevent yields in the super-long sector from falling too low. The BOJ central bank offered to buy 100 billion yen ($920 million) of bonds of the above maturity zone at its regular operation on Tuesday, compared to 120 billion yen previously

Hong Kong's business outlook continued to drop in October, indicating that there will be no immediate pickup from the recession in the city, which is facing a global trade slowdown and domestic political unrest and violence. The purchasing manager's index for the whole economy dropped to 39.3, the worst result since the depths of the financial crisis in November 2008.

On the primary issuance front, China has issued its guidance for its first EUR bonds issue in 15 years today. The 7-year, 12-year and 20-year tranches have IPG of MS+45-50 bps, MS+60-65 bps and MS+ 75-80 bps respectively. Averda International Holdings Limited is in the market today for its maiden USD bond issuance with IPTs at mid 9s for 5NC2 USD 325 Mn tranche. The firm is engaged in providing waste management services in the Middle East and Africa. The entity is rated B1 (stable)/-/BB (stable).

Saudi Aramco has also received the go ahead for its maiden equity IPO and the ITF is now available.
